Abstract

These notes are mnemonics about what was covered in class. They don't replace being present or reading the book. Reading ahead in the book is very effective.

This class was designed to be a catch-up class. We spent this lecture covering material that is described in lec08.pdf.

We may cover the optional topic "graphical summaries" later in the course, depending on how far we get with the core topics. In case you're interested, you can have a look at the handwritten notes.
